Makes a nice cup. I prefer brewing a full pot of coffee, and then drinking it within ten minutes or less. If this means I need to brew an extra cup or two, I go ahead and brew it, and then set it aside for later. Ideally, though, what I'd like is a single, large jar containing all the coffee I need for the day. I could pour some of this into my favorite mug and bring it to work or my favorite espresso place. Then I could brew this and keep it all ready to go. In reality, of course, this is not possible. But I'd love to find a system that gives me coffee for work, and more coffee at my house.Q: General term for the number of subsets that sum to n Let A be a set of n elements.
