“FIFA’s ambition from the very beginning was to build the best sports game on the planet. To accomplish that, we have embarked on an ambitious mission to blend our game with real-life sport,” said Alec Velasquez, Executive Producer, Creative Director and Game Director. “This collaboration with DICE gives us the foundation for FIFA to achieve this ambition. Thanks to their detailed understanding of what makes great game play, and the exceptional work they have done in collaborating with the players in real life for FIFA World Cup, we expect FIFA to be a true spectacle this summer.” As part of its partnership with EA SPORTS FIFA, DICE is also working on major improvements to FIFA’s broadcast package. “When we began developing FIFA, we knew that we were working on a game that would revolutionize the sports genre. In order to achieve this, we had to work closely with players. We would often have them involved at the very beginning of the process, helping us shape the game so that it would be better suited to what they enjoy and appreciate from football,” said Velasquez. “We believe that this will be the next step in a much bigger journey and one where we are making sure that, as a studio, we continue to evolve and push ourselves. We want to tell stories the same way we do in sports. I am sure that the new system and the “HyperMotion” technology will bring a lot of new excitement and emotion to football games.” DICE recently released a beta version of “FIFA 16”, which was launched simultaneously for Xbox One, Xbox 360 and PlayStation 4. Chapter 1 of this book has the greatest spoilers. That chapter will be fully updated and released shortly. ----- CALL YOUR SHOTS!!! And on a scale of 1-10, how much do you want to see a Voltron?
