Grand Theft Auto Vice City Game Free Download - Download GTA Vice City for PC Free, the latest version of this game available for Windows, .The Power of Beer. Oh, hell yes By Kathryn Berman Posted 05/14/2012 12:00:00 AM Updated 02/23/2013 08:38:23 AM John Davis, co-founder of Cottage Brewery which opened in a small East End town house in September 2011, is an experienced beer-maker. He has been brewing beer in Vermont for more than 20 years. "We're fifth or sixth generation," he says. "We moved from Franconia in July, and we're kind of settling in to the place, which is always a little stressful because you're bringing your family and your home to something new. We've had some success, but it hasn't been enough to keep things going," he says. Davis was inspired to join Cottage Brewery after he was asked to be involved in starting The Urban Growler, a craft beer, wine and food pub in Hudson, N.Y. "We're part of a movement in the country, and in the Northeast, of people wanting to bring back the neighborhood pub. The Urban Growler is our little contribution to the neighborhood," he says. The space is about 3,000 square feet, and the taproom has four rotating 10-barrel breweries in addition to a pizza oven. "We have a little bit of everything," says Davis. "We like variety. We're trying to stay creative, but we've got the kitchen, which we're trying to incorporate. We're trying to have as much variety as we can and stay sustainable. Ultimately, our business is to serve beer and wine and run a restaurant on the premises, so we can start serving pub food. We're working on that part." The pub's first beer was a collaboration with a Hudson brewery called Hudson Thunder that was released just after Thanksgiving. "It's our first beer, a dark beer that's brewed with indigenous to New York hops," says Davis. "It's a two-inch dry hopped double IPA called Ocelot. It has the hop flavors of citrus, grapefruit, tropical, but really an IPA with a little more spice and some resinous characteristics. It's dark in color, and it's medium bodied with medium carbonation." However, they've only brewed that beer once because they've had to be 6d1f23a050
