Human Zbuilder V1 0 For Zbrushrar

Is there an option to search for all zip files? Then it would be a little quicker to find that executable file! There is a discussion going on about non-3d content too. Perhaps the editor could add a "Use file extension to find ZIP files" box to the file type dialog, for the user to tick off. Can you please clarify the usage of the human zbuilder in the zbrush 4 editor to see why we are using it? Thanks.

For Maya, I'll definitely want to look at. The main difference is that Maya puts files with the same name but different extensions into a folder with a different name. So, instead of Maya being /some/folder/release, it becomes /some/folder/release-id

Is this correct? Would the behavior be different in Zbrush? Thanks for any answers! Using Maya & Zbrush and Zbrush & Maya, I haven't had any trouble at all. It would seem that you would need to pick a workflow for using Maya and Zbrush, and stick with it. Anyway, if I end up buying this "human zbuilder" program and it turns out that I don't like it, or if I'm trying to render it into a video, etc. and it's a pain, I will come back to this thread. I have no idea what I would be using this tool for, so I don't know why I'm posting. Why don't I even know what to do with a Human Zbuilder? Anyway, I hope you can help me better. Thanks again! -Zziln
