DirectoryInfo di = new DirectoryInfo(@"C:\lah"); int i=di.GetFiles().Length; How do you check the number of files in a directory that is above the current directory (i.e. the directory itself)? A: Given the directory is named directory, I would do: int i=Directory.GetFiles(directory).Length;

Q: how to make music tracks fade-out properly? I am working on a project for the first time and I have a problem with the music track. when the music track starts the fade-in effect works and it fades in gradually, but when the music track stops there is no fade-out effect, the audio just stops. you can see this in the below image, the music is playing in the second track and the start of the song is faded out when the song stops. it should fade-out just like in the first track. can anyone help me with this? Thanks in advance. first track:

second track: A: Most probably - when you stop playing a track - the application on the PC that's playing the track stops playing it immediately and does not continue playing the track. You need to make sure that you are continuing playing the track when you stop it. If you are using a SoundPlayer object for your track - then you can do it by simply calling the Play method on the SoundPlayer object when you stop playing the track. 5ec8ef588b
