LWS and grenade launchers are a key building block of Thales' Cerberus DAS. arrays can be used to provide 360° azimuth coverage. Ground control posts provide observation of the environment in azimuth up to 180°, while providing visual target detection, its identification and tracking. The complex can be used as a perimeter security system (Safer Guard), when its target detection and tracking functions are implemented using a radar station (radar) and a high-resolution thermal imaging device that allow you to detect and track targets.
